Attaching the activity cradle to the Therapy Bench.

There are 4 straps which secure the activity cradle to the bench. Two straps have no buckle and come from the side and attach to the back. The other two buckle straps come from the back corset of the cradle and attach to the front of the bench.

- 1 Place the activity cradle open and flat in the middle of the bench. Use central stitch line as a guide.
- 2 Open the two cam-locks at the rear of the bench. Take the non buckle straps and thread through each cam-lock. Make sure the straps are locked down and not twisted. You may need to adjust the length once the child is in position.
- 3 Place the child back into the cradle with their bottom over the white stitched line.
- 4 Fasten the front velcro pad around the child's tummy.
- 5 Thread the padded central strap between the front buckle and the child. Tighten the buckle securely. The strap should be fastened tightly allowing for two finger spaces between cradle and child.

- 6 Fold over the padded central strap so that the buckle is now hidden. This material will protect the child from direct contact.

- 7 Come around the back of the child and secure each side velcro flap around the child.

- 8 Take hold of the large buckle straps which come from the rear of the corset. Pull them over the child's inner thigh and secure to the buckles at the front of the bench.

- 9 Pull each buckle strap to tighten the corset, securing the child and ensuring the child is sitting with neutral pelvis. You are now ready to assess or play with the child.

The harness should be tight and hold pelvis in neutral
